CHEERFUL WORDS

For Many a Norway Household

To have the pains and aches of a bad back removed—to be entirely free from annoying, dangerous urinary disorders, is enough to make any kidney sufferer grateful. The following advice of one who has suffered will prove helpful to hundreds of Norway readers.

Mrs. Myrtle Payne, 237 Main St., Norway, says: "I used Doan's Kidney Pills and am thoroughly satisfied they are a dependable remedy. I had more or less pain across my back and kidneys. It annoyed me very much and when stooping and lifting, I felt it more. I found Doan's Kidney Pills good for the trouble and after I used this remedy the pains lessened. I have been practically free from the trouble since and I feel the remedy deserves my recommendation." (Statement given June 7, 1916.)

On September 3, 1920, Mrs. Payne said: "I recommend Doan's Kidney Pills as highly today as I have during several years past. The great good they did me has lasted and my faith in the remedy has remained firm."

Price 60c at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Payne had. Foster-Milburn Co., Mfrs., Buffalo, N. Y.

PHYSIOLOGICAL ACTION OF TANLAC EXPLAINS

World's Leading Authorities Show Just What Tanlac Really is and Explain Effect of Each of Ten Ingredients on the Human System. Power of Medicine Conclusively Proven

A day never passes but what thousands of people ask the questions: What is Tanlac? Why its phenomenal success? Why do we hear so much about it? and Why has this preparation so far outstripped all other medicines of its kind?

The answer to these questions is easy and can be explained in just one word—merit. Tanlac is scientifically compounded and represents years of work, study, experimentation and research by some of the foremost chemists and pharmacologists of America.

The Tanlac formula is purely ethical and complies with all National and State pure food laws. It is purely vegetable and is made from the most beneficial roots, herbs and barks known to materia medica. The Tanlac Laboratories are among the largest and most modernly equipped in this country.

Ten Ingredients in One.

Altogether, there are ten ingredients in Tanlac, each of which is of recognized therapeutic value.

In referring to one of the more important ingredients of Tanlac, the Encyclopedia Britannica says:

"It has been the source of the most valuable tonic medicines that have ever been discovered."

In referring to other of the general tonic drugs contained in Tanlac, the 13th Edition of Potter's Therapeutics, a standard medical text-book, states that "they impart general tone and strength to the entire system, including all organs and tissues."

This same well-known authority in describing the physiological action of still another of the ingredients of Tanlac, which is of value in treating what is commonly known as a "run-down condition," uses the following expression:

"It is highly esteemed in loss of appetite during convalescence from acute diseases."

There are certain other elements in Tonic and Body Builder.

Tanlac was designed primarily for the correction of disorders of the stomach, liver and bowels. At the same time, however, it is a powerful reconstructive tonic and body builder, for it naturally follows that any medicine that brings about proper assimilation of the food and the thorough elimination of the waste products must, therefore, have a far-reaching and most beneficial effect upon the entire system.

There are certain other elements in

Your Last Year's Straw is Without Doubt Still Good For the Garden

This Year

There is such a vast difference between this year's Straw styles that to correct this summer you will either have to buy a new hat—or spend all your time raising vegetables. You won't be able to raise much else if you insist on bringing last year's bonnet south of the back stoop.

Narrower brims—broader crowns—new placing of bows and bands.

It looks as though the manufacturers had made the change simply to make you change.

But cheer up—there's comfort in the new prices.

OF course you have noticed that the people in this world who get what they go after usually go to the Bank first. And you've also noticed that the people for whom Dame Fortune has a "come hither" expression in her eye are those who go to Bank regularly. Which prompts the remark that even if our savings window is some times crowded it's an inspiration to be one of a crowd of "go getters."

NORWAY AND VICINITY

ONE MAN'S VIEW OF NORWAY'S NEEDS

To look the barn after the horse has been stolen is poor practice.

To put a traffic officer at the corner of Cottage and Main Sts., on Saturday night with no laws to enforce is nonsense for he cannot be a policeman going from Stone's Drug Store to Jackson's market from being knocked down and injured, if nothing more serious, by some wild bird in an automobile.

So instead of half doing a thing, why not do it all, do it right and do it now? This town needs traffic laws and the quicker they get them the better chance there will be to have no vacant chairs around the table for tomorrow's dinner.

I understand that it is within the power of the selectmen of this town to make such traffic laws as they deem proper so I submit this suggestion for consideration.

The car track in the center of the street is dangerous to the automobilist, especially in wet weather.

With white paint mark spaces diagonally across these car tracks making the spaces of proper width to park cars without crowding.

At the corner of Main, Whitman and Bridge Sts., place a silent policeman. At the corner of Main and Cottage place another and place the third at the corner of Main and Danforth St.

No open space shall be at Main and Deering.

Make it a law that all cars must park diagonally across the car tracks and between the painted lines.

All cars headed up Main St. must go on the right hand side of the street and all cars going down Main St. must go on the left hand side of the street.

Cars should be allowed to stop at the curbs only long enough to take on or to discharge passengers. Such a law would keep the curbs clear at all times and this should please every merchant in town, for especially in wet weather it would give their customers an opportunity to go directly to the store they wish to buy from instead of going to the store that is most convenient to get to without wetting their feet.

After discharging passengers, if the car desires to wait, it will be required that they park in some open space diagonally across the car tracks.

To get back into the road again the driver of the car would have to back out of the space and proceed on his right. To go out of the space by going forward would be against the law.

All turps would have to be made at the points where the silent policemen are stationed.

The benefits from such traffic laws would be, first, for pedestrians, for the fact that they would have to look but one way when crossing the street and not both one way when crossing the street and both ways, while most of them do not bother to look at all.

Second, the merchants could have the curbs in front of their stores open, so a buyer could get somewhere near them. To-day if you want to buy in Z. L. Merchant's, and an Odd Fellows' meeting is in session, you have to stop your car in the middle of the street and take the chance of being wrecked by another car, or you have to stop at the curb near the Opera House and walk down.

Third, a driver of a car cannot see the curb under today's conditions and the cars hide the pedestrian, many times they are children, who dart out between the parked cars to cross the street. If an accident happens then the motorist is all to blame in the minds of the public.

Those are enough reasons for making some laws and if the selectmen will give the matter some thought, laws can be made and motorists can be made to keep them.

Don't wait until some kiddie is picked off and an arm broken or a life snuffed out.

Don't wait until some mother or father is taken away from their family.

Don't wait until two cars come together and leave a tangle of mangled bodies and wrecked cars.

If traffic officers are to be used make some laws for them to enforce, but whether officers are to be used or not, make some laws that will prohibit some serious accident that is bound to come soon, if present conditions continue.

NOVELTY IN CHAUTAUQUA PROGRAM

When Community Chautauqua opens here July 8-14, you will get your first taste of the new-planned entertainment. That the Community Chautauqua System planned for variety, this year, and got it, is shown by a casual glance at the list of talent.

The Syracuse Varsity Male Quartet will introduce this novelty program. These four college boys will sing and play for you the happy college songs which are always so popular. The Varsity is one of the few real quartets on the Chautauqua platform.

The Arion Entertainers are one of the big attractions of the Second day, the other attraction being Sherman Rogers, the Lumberjack Orator. Here indeed is a novelty day. The Arions present a program of songs, music, stories of cartooning and clay modeling—in fact almost every variety of entertainment.

Hear Master Winslow Rouse, the boy soloist of Trinity Church, Boston. Sherman Rogers is a great speaker and writer on industrial subjects. He is the type of man who says exactly what he thinks and who doesn't waste words in polite phrases. For this reason, he has gained the attention of both capital and labor and has made a great name for himself. You, no doubt, have read some of his articles in the leading newspapers and the magazines of the country.

Appearing on the third day are the New Englanders, a trio of young ladies, presenting a program of songs and music both semi-classic and popular.

Of course you have heard of Strickland Gillilan. He is famous from coast to coast as a writer and lecturer on humorous subjects and is regarded as one of the finest Chautauqua attractions in the country. "Just Between Ourselves" is worth the price of a season ticket alone, for Mr. Gillilan can make you smile and think as no other humorist can. He will be here on the Fourth day and with him the International Concert Party.

The Internationals are a very high-class musical organization, presenting the masterpieces of music. This quartet represents four distinct nationalities.

The Fifth day sessions are not to be missed, for "The Cinderella Man," the big comedy-drama success, will be here. With special scenery and effects and a cast of professional New York players, this production will mark one of the biggest events of the week. No expense has been spared in making this attraction complete in every detail.

"Mother Lake" will be with us on the Fifth day with her wonderful inspirational message, "The Divine Rights of the Child." Chautauqua audiences are always glad to welcome this lady orator, for they know she brings to them a lecture of real worth.

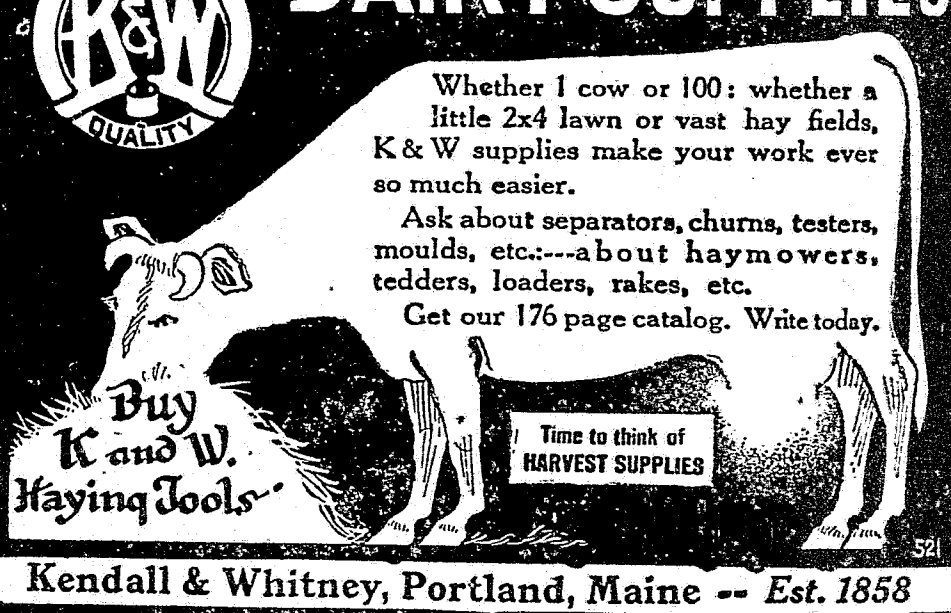

On the last day Chief Tahan and the Princess Naacome Company will entertain. Chief Tahan will tell you a true life story which rivals the most thrilling adventure tale. His experiences in the West among the Indians have given him a fund of information for his delightful talk, which is entitled "Up from Savagery." Princess Naacome and her company will entertain you with Indian stories, songs and music together with many popular American airs, played on the piano, violin, flute and saxophone. The Princess, herself, is a remarkable violinist.

When you consider the entertainments and the variety of each program you will readily see that this year's Chautauqua is a decided advance over any of other years.

There is no time like the present, so buy that season ticket now from your local committee. Help them in their work—help the town and help make your Community Chautauqua a success.

Watch your step. In the United States, last year, 65,000 girls disappeared without leaving a trace. Pitfalls are numerous and yawning, and many are obscured from the view of the unwary.

A DREAM OF LIFE

How bright the morning broke, the sky how blue;
Birds gaily caroled, nature's myriad voices filled the ambient air with music that had a tune of Paradise in its sweet clear notes.
The blue ether flecked with fleeting white clouds.
Took on a darker shade, as I journeyed on,
And how strange it seemed, that men should call this, a hard cold world.
Where fragrant flowers bloomed, and blithe birds
Sang, and all seemed joy and gladness.
Who could wish to stay the fleeting hours When passed amid such pleasant scenes?
But all too soon, dark clouds began to gather.
The pleasant glades to turn to dreary moorlands.
To treeless plain, and toilsome hill; Briers caught and tendrils clung.
Still on I sped, borne by an unknown power.
No rest for aching heart, or weary hand.
Slumps of quiet vales and vine-clad hills, Children at play in flowery meadows.
That pass swiftly by in my onward flight.
But on, no lingering here; time passes hard.
There's no resisting this onrush onward march.
How rough grows the road to tired feet, How wistfully I gaze at the far off Mountain top, shall I ever reach The distant shining summit?
And enter the gate beautiful?
My bleeding, wounded feet can scarce keep the way.
My trembling limbs will hardly bear me on,
Length, branching trees hold low their limbs, Whose shaggy points cast my tiring flash, Faint with utter weariness, and yet
The end is not.
So, across a dark stream, rises fair And majestic the "Tree of Life".
Leaving leaves for the healing of the nations
And near by the peaceful tomb, that promises Shelter and rest from earth's fierce strife.
But still the prayer is "not yet."
Wilson's Mills.

THE COMMON MAN

He lived just a common everyday life,
With his own children and only one wife.
He was known to the neighbors as the day
Worker all the while without stopping to play.
Went to bed early and got up the same,
And all his days were what is called tame.
Still, he had merit; he cared for his own;
Lacked naught of others, stood up alone;
Made no one trouble, lived in no strife.
Lived just a commonplace, everyday life!
DON C. SEITZ.

HAVE YOU RETURNED YOUR BLANK?

The Bureau of the Census of Washington, D. C., has sent out letters requesting persons owning their homes with enumbrance on same to fill out certain blanks, giving the market value, amount of encumbrance and a few other questions.
The object is to ascertain the amount of the encumbrances on homes. This inquiry is made in compliance with the requirements of the Act of Congress approved March 3, 1919. It is desired to show the total number of homes in each city and town that are rented, the number that are owned free of mortgage, the number that are subject to mortgage indebtedness and the amount of such indebtedness. Schedules of inquiry calling for this information have been sent to all of the persons reported as owning homes subject to mortgage.
The law providing for this inquiry contains a penalty for refusal to furnish the information. These replies will be treated as strictly confidential and the figures used only for the compilation of totals.

In Paris (not Maine) the other day, A former European queen appeared in society garbed in a new creation. Possibly she wanted to create a sensation.
At any rate she did. Paris is still sen-sationing between gasps. From the waist down her gown was an exact imitation of the body of a fish—and as tight fitting as a drum head. Thousands of spangles glittered in the sunshine, each tinted to resemble scales. And behind dangled a reproduction of a fish's tail—fins and all. Now Paris is full of imitation trout, salmon, white fish, shiners, and every other member of the finny tribe. Soon, no doubt, the turtle will have its inning. When the call for the brainless is sounded there is always a ready response—even as fish.

The successful man is monarch of his own affairs. When he divides his prerogatives he also surrenders a large portion of his profits.

NOTES FROM JOSEPH ANDREWS

Pittsburgh, Pa., June 28, 1921.

Dear Advertiser:
I have recently received several letters from old time friends that will be of interest to some of your readers, and I have the pleasure to make a few quotations.
Under date of May 22, Mrs. Henry Andrews writes from West Fryeburg that all are well, and that the prospect of a blueberry crop is good.

Under date of June 9th, Mrs. N. H.
Swan writes from Happy Camp, Calif., in exact as follows: "I cannot always find time for writing now that Charley is so much more care than formerly. His eyes are destroyed and he suffers constantly. An opiate is necessary now. I have to spend so much time reading to him alone, he gets so lonely. We seldom have callers. People here take very little interest in the sick, and time passes slowly when one is blind. But he is very patient, seldom complains, but he will be glad when the summons comes.
Barker is working on the Government road that is being built down the Kilamath river, twenty miles from here, visits us quite frequently. The weather has been so changeable, a cold backward spring. Most of the fruit was killed by frost; we have a few strawberries, cherries and raspberries. We planted a small vegetable garden for our own use.
Our friend is still with us. We could not get along without him. He is so kind to us both, like a son."

Under date of June 15th, A. M. Potter of Lovell gives me a cordial invitation to visit them, and gives me information about the running of the Lovell stage; informs me of Mrs. Kimball's death at the Harbor, and confirms the previous report that the wild berry crop indications are good. Mrs. Kimball was a fine old lady and a friend worth having. During most of my school boy's days she and her husband and the three boys, Joseph, Frank and James, lived in the house just across the road from the Center Lovell schoolhouse. Their farm was small, only six acres, I believe, and Mr. Kimball and the eldest boy Jo, worked out a good deal. My step father, Uncle Joseph Andrews, hired a great deal of help on the rough and rocky farm, and many a day Moses K. and I swung the scythes in the sky fields, and killed weeds with the hoe amongst the growing corn and potato and garden crops. On my second visit to Maine about 1888, I visited at the Kimball home. They were living on the Smith farm where Otis Andrews now lives. The boys had grown up and gone from home.
Frank and James had gone west, and Joseph had married and was living in Stow. Moses had had a shock and was almost helpless, and Mary, as Mr. Kimball always called his wife, was the chief spoke in the wheel and was very good during the day Jo drove over from Stow to look after the old folks and I had a short visit with him. I think his father died soon after. That was some thirty years ago. I went back to my Dakota ranch and lost all track of the Kimball's, until my fifth trip to Maine nine years ago, when I hunted him up. I found him living on his little farm in Stow on which was growing a large amount of valuable pine timber, while he owned a choice tract of interval land down on the Cold river flat. His children had grown up, married, and gone into homes of their own, and he and his faithful wife and aged mother made up his family circle.
On my last visit to Maine five years ago, I again visited the Kimballs. He still lived at Stow, but on account of his wife's poor health and his aged mother, he had bought a house at the Harbor so as to be near a married daughter, she could run in and help when needed.

A year ago I received from "Flory" Barker of Ebbensburg, Pa., a letter which was published in the Advertiser at the time. About two months ago I wrote to him again, and in a few days ago received from his son he following letter:
"Dear Cousin Joseph—Your letter to P. D. Barker received some time ago. I am sorry to learn you that father passed away last January, and I am enclosing a paper account of it. He had an operation in September for an enlarged prostate gland, and seemed to get along nicely for a while, but finally got an infection which he could not overcome.
Mother had a second light shock four weeks ago, but is recovering and now able to get around her room again. I am married and live in Johnstown. My wife and I expect to be in Pittsburgh soon after the 4th, and we will look you up if you are going to be there that long.
Very truly, Olin G. A. Barker, M. D."

Florentine Barker

Mr. Barker was born in Lovell, Oxford County, Maine, Feb. 8, 1847, hence was in his 74th year at the time of his death. He was educated in the common schools of New England and came west with his father and family to Cambria county in 1865 and had since been prominently identified with its history. He was a son of the Hon. Abraham A. Barker and Or-sina (Little) Barker, both deceased. His father was the representative in Congress from the Seventeenth Congressional District, composed of the counties of Cambria, Huntingdon Blair and Mifflin, in 1864, having been elected by a handsome majority.
Florentine Henry Barker and Margaret A. Zahn, daughter of George C.
K. and Eliza Zahn, of Ebbensburg, were united in marriage on the former's birthday, Feb. 8, 1870. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. B. M. Kerr, pastor of the local Presbyterian church at that time.
The deceased is survived by his widow, one son, Dr. Olin G. A. Barker of Johnstown; also two brothers, the Hon. Augustine V. Barker of Bradenton, Fla., and Judge of Cambria county, and Constantine I. Barker, Ot. brother, Valentine S. Barker, died here in 1906.
Flory Barker was a loyal son of Lovell. He was a first cousin to Joseph Stearns of Lovell Center, father of Albert Stearns, and his three sisters. A few years ago he wrote me of his recent visit to Maine, and of the fine visit he and his wife had with his Lovell, Stoneham and Norway friends and cousins.
He was one of over twenty great, great grandsons of Capt. Abraham Andrews, who were the blue and fought for their country in the dark days of the Civil war. His brother, Judge Augustine Barker, proved his loyalty to his native town by naming his oldest daughter, Lovell Maine Barker.

About 1787 or '88 my father, then a boy about 13 years of age, with his three sisters, Betsy, Esther and Sally, all younger than himself, and his father and mother and a few friends, and started out home in Billerica, Mass., and started out to found a home in the wilderness of Maine. They located in Lovell and were the first settlers there. Here the family grew up and three children were added to the family tree, Isaac S., Jacob and Polly. The last named died at the age of 17, and Jacob at the age of 25. The other five grew up strong and vigorous.

Each raised a good sized family and were the fountain stock of my branch of the Andrews family. My father, Abraham Andrews, 2d, was three times married, and was the father of 16 children of which I was the youngest. Two died in infancy and one, John at the age of 26 and unmarried. The other 13, all grew up, were married and raised up families of their own. Of them Betsy married Capt. Stephen Barker of Lovell Center. Of this family of 8 children, seven lived to grow up. John kept the old homestead farm, and Andrew bought and improved the farm adjoining now owned by Benj. Russell. Esther married Capt. Stephen Heald of Lovell village. They had a family of nine children, none of which I knew except Enas Heald, one of the leading business men of Lovell. John and Sally Andrews married David Stearns of Lovell Center. They had a family of nine children, seven of which grew up and were married and raised up children of their own.

Uncle Isaac S. Andrews married for his first wife Sally Kimball of Lovell Center. He was the first child born in Lovell. They had six children, five of whom grew up and married. All of these 47 grandchildren of Capt. Abraham Andrews were born in Lovell or Fryeburg.
Most of them are now married, and most of them within a radius of two miles of the old Congregational church at the Center.
Many of the older ones received their religious training in the old town house still standing on the common at the Center, and learned their A. B. C.'s at the old four square roofed schoolhouse now standing on the George Evans farm near by.

About the close of the Civil war emigration from Lovell began in earnest.
Jacob Andrews and his aged father, one brother and two sisters, and other Lovell friends, moved to Extra, Iowa. The Barkers to Ebbensburg and Johnstown, Pa., the Healds, Stearns and Woodburys to San Francisco, and I with numerous my kindred to South Dakota. The only representative of the "Tribe of Abraham" that I can recall now living in Maine is Fred Stearns, son of Horatio, the grand children of A. M. Pottle, who represented the Abel Heald family, the sons and daughter of Josiah Stearns, who represent their mother's branch of the Stearns Stearns family. Albion Heald, if living, and his son Seth represent the Eshon Heald family, while Fryeburg is represented by Henry, Mell and John Andrews, and by Dean Ballard and the Eakley Ballard family.

About four months ago I bought a pistol that registers every step I take. The weather is very hot of late and I am shy of taking long walks. My longest one-day's walk was 18 miles, and I find I am averaging some over a 100 miles a month, which keeps me in good walking trim. On July 1st I plan to make a straight shoot for Fryeburg, visit there three weeks, then go to Lovell for the same stay, then come back to Philadelphia and spend at least a month with a cousin who has a cottage at Stone Harbor, N. J., then back here for the winter.

The last week in May the "Ministers" attended the State Congregational Conference at Philadelphia. It lasted for three days and gave them a fine outing. My daughter, the elected president of the Woman's Union Missionary Society for Pennsylvania. After the preaching service last Sunday evening, the ministers were invited to retire for a short time, while the congregation remained upon some private business.
When they were called back, they were informed that the church had voted to give them the entire month of August for a vacation, with a full month's salary paid in advance. They will spend two weeks in Newark, with Mr. Williams father and sister, and one week at Wayland, O., a former preaching station, where they will visit with old friends.

CHOWDERS.

Akin to the cream soups is the hearty chowder made of fish. Salmon is especially good. Clam is perhaps the favorite, but corn is not to be overlooked.
This is almost a meal by itself, and a hearty one, as many a camper will testify. Mix the chowder by first cutting the bacon into small bits and frying out the fat slowly. In this fat saute the he sliced onion, removing it before it browns. While this is being done the fish, or whatever is to be used, should be simmering, not boiling; then onion and bacon added the potatoes after being parboiled and cubed, are dropped in and the whole simmered until the potatoes are soft. The scalded milk is now added, salt and pepper to taste, and just before serving split crackers are scattered on top.

SECRETS WILL OUT.

A new use has been found for ether, and the criminal element of our population is not pleased. In time their unending development into a panic. It has been demonstrated by practical experiment that a small amount of ether administered to a person—an amount sufficient to place him under its influence and yet leaving him conscious—will cause that person to respond readily to any question, to babble his inmost secrets.
Just what effect information secured in this manner will have in law is unknown, as its admissibility is yet to be ascertained. But the fact remains that this opens up a possible way of detecting guilt and of solving many of the mysteries that now baffle the police of the country.

THE STARLING

Nellie F. Stone of Malden, Mass., having read in the Advertiser of a number of Norway and South Paris people seeing starlings here, this spring, sends us an article on the bird and is described as follows: Length, 8½ in. Adult male in summer, black with purple and green reflections, the feathers of the upper parts more or less tipped with pale buff, which gives the bird a slightly spotted appearance when in hand, but at a little distance the spots are invisible; under tail coverts edged with brown.
Adult female, spotted below as well as above. Young, uniform ash brown, faintly streaked with darker; bill dark.
Specimens taken in late autumn and in winter are much more spotted than summer birds. In winter the color of the bill seems to vary with the different individuals.

The first importations numbered 80 birds liberated March 6, 1890, and 40 more, April 25, 1891, at Central Park, New York City. Its insect-eating habits, its beauty and its cheery notes have already made it a very popular bird in this country who will protect it stoutly; and this protection together with the bird's ability to take care of itself and keep out of danger, precludes all possibility of its extermination here if it proves undesirable.

Were rewards or bounties offered with a view to its extinction, blackbirds, meadowlarks and other native species, which consort with the starling, would be among the chief sufferers. The starling is here to stay, and we must make the best of it. Whether its presence will result in more good than harm will depend largely on the ratio of its increase. We now know enough of its habits in this country to forecast some of the results that may be expected from an excess of the species.

The food of the starling in America seems to be similar in general character to that which it consumes in Europe. It is particularly useful there, however, because of its fondness for the destructive land snails. It cannot be expected that it will be thus beneficial here, for we are not similarly afflicted in this country.
The starling can give no service here that cannot be equally well performed by our own blackbirds, meadowlarks, bob-links, sparrows and other birds, but it will be useful where these birds are not numerous enough to keep the insect enemies of grass lands in check. Already, however, the starling has begun to show a capacity for harmfulness which may be expected to become more prominent as its numbers increase. In the breeding season small flocks go to the cherry trees, and as they alight for a few minutes a shower of cherry stones may be heard. Sometimes they strip a tree completely and then go to another.

In other cases they feed in a desultory way, taking toll from all the trees in a neighborhood. Many observers state that the starling eats apples, but this habit appears thus far to be confined mainly to apples left on the tree late in the fall after the crop has been gathered, nevertheless, they sometimes eat the ripe fruit. Flocks sometimes descend on a strawberry bed and considerably reduce the crop. In the autumn, when starlings gather into large flocks of a thousand or more, they are often very destructive to corn in the ear. Sometimes they have the habit of pulling up young plants.
The conclusion is that the Starling as yet is hardly numerous enough to do much injury to fruit crops, vegetables or native birds, thus far it is beneficial by destroying noxious insects. Nevertheless those who raise cherries and strawberries cannot appreciate the benefits to be derived from the starling, therefore some states already have removed protection of law from it.

Intelligent people emphasize their quality by the use of simple language. It is only the weak-minded who wrap their tongues around words of which they know not the meaning.

The value of a good book is not measured in dollars and cents, but rather by the capacity of the brain of the person who reads it.

COMMUNITY JUNIOR CHAUTAUQUA

Days Filled with Good Times—not a Dull Hour in the Week.

The Junior Community Chautauqua starts off with the "Pied Piper's P.
Raid" on the evening of the opening day—a great Parade for every boy and girl in town, from eight to eighty. Begins promptly at seven o'clock and ends promptly at eight o'clock at the Chan-taqua tent in time for the first program of the season. From the head of the procession, where the lively Pied Piper will sit, down to the last littlest girl or boy at the "tail-end," there will be strangely and gaily dressed paraders. A group of hardy sea-seasoned sailors, a bevy of merry-faced oriental girls, a squad of uniformed Boy Scouts, a P-Nutt Band, a torch-light brigade of dark-faced musicians, a raft filled with curious looking buccaners, a company of "Camp Fire Girls" guarded by Indians, and many many other costumed figures of interest.
All the noise in town is to be used in this "P-Raid." After marching through the principal streets, the procession will finally halt at the Tent and what a yell will go up from the Junior Chautauqua.
The Pied-Piper will divide his pie among the children and those who get the "lucky pieces" will win prize tickets.

Early the second morning, in search for lost ships that are scattered around town will go the eager Juniors. When all the hundred ships are brought safely into harbor (the Big Tent where the Play-Leader waits) the finders of the three "Treasure Ships" will be given a reward. You'll never guess what it is.
Then Junior citizens will elect their own Mayor, as well as other high officers.
Great care will be taken to make the very best selections possible. Watch the Junior citizens work throughout the week and count their splendid activities if you can. Each citizen will wear a badge so that you will know him to be a "true blue Junior."

More thrilling and lively than ever are the games and stunts planned for the Juniors. Every morning from ten to eleven-thirty, games and folk-dances for the girls; and stunts and games for the boys.

Then the new big Pageant, in which every Junior Chautauqua has some part to play. On the last afternoon this Pageant, "The Cruise of the Jollity," will be presented.

Four afternoon story-hours conducted by the Play-Leader. Stories of magic, mirth and mystery, with some true, up-to-the-hour stories, too. A new costume worn by the Story-Teller each afternoon.
No boy or girl would miss these story hours.

There are so many other features of this vacation-week for girls and boys.
A Breakfast-hike that is different from any "hike" ever taken before—a "Booster" pledge that will interest groups as well as children—and many other too-numerous-to-mention fun-times.

HOT-WEATHER RULES.

Load lightly and drive slowly.
Stop in the shade if possible.
A sponge on the head or even a cloth is good if kept wet. If dry it is worse than nothing.

Water your horse as often as possible.
So long as a horse is working, let him small quantities will not hurt him. But let him drink only a few swallows if he is going to stand still.

When he comes in after work, sponge off the harness marks and sweat, his eyes, his nose and mouth, and the dock.
Wash his feet but not his legs.

If the thermometer is 75 degrees or higher, wipe him all over with a damp sponge, using vinegar water if possible.
Do not wash the horse at night.

Saturday night, give a bran mash, lukewarm; and add a tablespoonful of saltpetre.

Watch your horse. If he stops sweating suddenly, or if he breathes short and quick, or if his ears droop, or if he stands with his legs braced sideways, he is in danger of a heat or sun stroke and needs attention at once.

If the horse is overcome by heat, get him into the shade, remove harness and bridle, wash out his mouth, sponge him all over, shower his legs, and give him two ounces of spirits of ammonia, or two ounces of sweet spirits of niter in a pint of water; or give him a pint of coffee warm. Cool his head at once, using cold water, or, if necessary, chopped ice, wrapped in a cloth.

If the horse is off his feed, try him with two quarts of oats mixed with bran, and a little water; and add a little salt or sugar. Or give him oatmeal gruel or barley water to drink.

Clean your horse at night, so that he can rest well, and clean him thoroughly.
The salt dandruff drug on his skin makes him uncomfortable, and often produces sores under the harness.

Do not fail to water him at night after he has eaten his hay. If you don't he will be very thirsty all night.

If it is so hot that the horse sweats in the stable at night, tie him outside, with bedding under him. Unless he cools off during the night, he cannot stand the next day's heat.

CAUTIONS ON MAKING LEASE

The farm-lease contract is among the most troublesome features of the farming business, and one of considerable importance in view of the fact that the 1910 census—the results of the 1920 census are not yet available—shows that 37 per cent. of all farms are operated by tenants and another 9.3 per cent by owners who lease additional land. It is estimated that part or all of the land and improvements of about 3,000,000 farms are rented, and that, while the average length of tenancy is three years, the majority of lease contracts are for one year, making about 2,000,000 lease contracts to be made or renewed each year.

A written lease is much more satisfactory than a verbal one. If one of the parties should die, a written contract protects his estate from false claims by the other party. Moreover, it serves as a memorandum to both parties so that the actual terms of the contract may not be forgotten.

The principal points to be considered in the farm lease, which are dealt with more or less at length in the bulletin are:

Date, names of parties, time of duration, manner of termination, description of property, reservations, assurances and guarantees by both parties, agreements with respect to credit, respective contributions by both parties of operating capital and to expenses, adjustments regarding property owned in joint account, payment of rent, specifications with respect to the care, use and improvement of real estate; specifications with respect to farming method and procedure, provisions

Of course that cannot be literally true. But because of the ease with which adjustments can be made and replacements installed, the Hudson Super-Six has virtually a perpetual life.

No Super-Six seems ever to have become wholly disabled through wear. In fact, in various parts of the country men make a business of buying up old Hudsons and restoring them. You would be surprised at the slight cost necessary to put a Super-Six in good condition. No special skill not found in the average repair shop is required.

And the fact that the Hudson body lines have been so consistently expressive of good taste, makes them acceptable when more extreme types have become "Old Fashioned."

Because of these facts you will find Hudsons six years old that are nearing a hundred thousand miles of service.

NORTH NORWAY. Electrical Showers.

A severe electric shower passed over this place, late Sunday afternoon. The lightning struck a telephone pole not far from E. A. Cox's, putting their phone, also Howard Heath's and E. T. Jenkins' out of commission. It also played havoc among things at Claude Haskell's. At E. A. Cox's it blew a hole in the plastering when the fuse blew out, and at E. T. Jenkins' splinters were blown from the sheathing and a square of glass in a window broken. At Howard Heath's the paper was badly blackened in two different places.

EAST SUMNER.

Eastman-Schonland

An exceptionally beautiful June bridal was that which took place at high noon on June 30 when Gertrude Amelia Schonland became the bride of Roger Eastman. Miss Schonland is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Schonland and is a graduate of Gorham Normal school. She has completed a most successful career as a teacher. Mr. Eastman is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Wellington H. Eastman of East Sumner.

The ceremony took place at the home of the bride's parents in Portland. Promptly at 12 o'clock, the bridal party entered the room to the strains of the Mendelssohn wedding march, played by the bride's sister, Frieda Schonland. The bridal party, including the maid of honor, Erna M. Schonland, the bride's sister, three bridesmaids, Marjorie Atwood, Ruth Carter and one of the younger matrons, Mrs. Richard Libby, the flower girl, Roberta Keller, and ring bearer, Robert Keller, cousins of the bride and children of Mrs. Rudolph Keller of Manchester, N. H., preceded the bride down the broad stairway to a beautiful arch of evergreen, under which the bridal couple stood during the ceremony. At the foot of the stairway the bride was met by her father, who also gave her in marriage.

Dr. James F. Albion of the First Universalist church, read the impressive double ring service. The decorations were very artistically arranged, a profusion of roses and iris being banked about the windows and mantles in a most effective manner. Suspended from the center of the arch was a lovely bridal bell, made of white garden flowers.

The maid of honor, Miss Schonland, wore an attractive gown of rose organdie and carried a beautiful shower bouquet of pink waterlilies and baby's breath. The gowns of the bridesmaids were of organdie, Miss Atwood wearing yellow, Miss Carter blue and Mrs. Richard Libby, rose, while all carried arm bouquets of peonies. Little Roberta Keller, in a dainty frock of shell pink organdie, carried a basket of old-fashioned garden pinks, forget-me-nots and baby's breath. Master Robert carried the rings on a blue satin cushion.

The bride wore a bridal gown of white organdie, with long tulle veil arranged coronet with orange blossoms. Her bouquet was bride roses combined with forget-me-nots and white pansies.

The bridegroom had as his attendants Robert Schonland, the bride's brother, as best man, and as ushers, Edward Atwood, Henry Lamb and Edward Berkley. A reception attended by hundreds of friends of the young couple, was held at twelve-thirty. Miss Lougee had charge of the decorations. The parents of both bride and groom assisted in receiving the guests. The guest book was in charge of Charlotte Keating, while Augusta Eastman, a sister of the bridegroom, had the many beautiful gifts in charge.

Mr. Eastman and his bride are to take an extended wedding trip, the bride traveling in a gown of brown canton crepe with wrap of gold cloth and hat of brown and blue. Mr. Eastman has recently bought a new house in East Sumner, where they will make their home.

There were patriotic exercises at the church, morning and evening, Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilton Hawes and two children, and Mr. and Mrs. James Nefties, all of South Weymouth, have been visiting at E. R. H. Stetson's.

Lawren Keene spent the Fourth at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Philip Perry of Portland.

Merton Howe has discontinued his trips as stage driver between East Sumner and Redding, and John Andrews now has the route.

Mrs. W. H. Eastman and two daughters, Esther and Augusta, attended the wedding of her son Roger, to Gertrude Schonland at Portland, last Thursday. Edward Berkley was one of the ushers.

ABLE TO DO HER WORK

After Long Suffering Mrs. Siefert Was Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Pottsville, Pa.—"I suffered with female trouble for four or five years and was very irregular. I was not fit to do my work at times and took medicine from a doctor and got no benefit. I saw Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound advertised in the newspapers and took it and got all right. I gained twenty pounds or more and am now able to do my work. I recommend the Vegetable Compound to my friends and you may use these facts as a testimonial."—Mrs. SALLIE SIEFERT, 112 W. Fourth Street, Pottsville, Pa.

The everyday life of many housewives is a continuing struggle with weakness and pain. There is nothing more wearing than the ceaseless round of household duties and they become doubly hard when some female trouble makes every one and muscle ache, and nerves all on edge.

If you are one of these women do not suffer for four or five years as Mrs. Siefert did, but profit by her experience and be restored to health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

The Lure of BIRTH STONES

JULY

It was believed that in the birthstone of July burned an inextinguishable flame. Noah, he said, had with him on the Ark a ruby that shed a soft and glowing light all through the flood. This gem is treasured in India, the land of jewel splendor, where it is called the rash of precious stones, and there it is considered that the good effects are most surely secured, if the ruby set in a bracelet, ring, or brooch is worn on the left side.

Rings, Pins, Pendants, set with genuine Maine Stones.
